In June 2010, UK internet users made more visits to social networks than search engines for the first time.

Facebook is the most used social media site, with over 28 million users, and The network accounts for 55% of all social media visits. The UK is Facebook's Second largest market, trailing only the US for number of users. YouTube is the second most popular social media site in the UK, with Twitter coming in third.

Other social networks such as MySpace and Bebo are still present in the UK, but have less than 1% each of all social media visits.

How Important is Search?

“Marketing content which is not available to search engines isn’t worth localising. Period.”

Andy Atkins-Krüger

The background of the slide is a dense, overlapping field of three-dimensional dollar signs ($). These symbols are rendered in a light gray or off-white color with soft shadows, giving them a tangible, blocky appearance. They are scattered across the entire frame, creating a textured, financial-themed backdrop.

Winning Hearts and Minds

- Build a Culture of Search
  - Set expectations accordingly -- local teams often don't have as much resource and asked to do many other tasks
- Develop your own local awareness.
  - Remember, you're from headquarters and you're supposed to be there to help.
  - Not knowing what the major local search engine (or language, or major holidays) are doesn't make for a good foundation.
- Where you have them, trust your local teams.
  - Educate, Empower, and Trust Them: They have the cultural context and local market knowledge.
  - Provide global resources and support (basic search knowledge, central infrastructure optimization, etc.)
